Introduction

Created in 2005, The Electric Cube is directed by two illumination designers (José Luis Alegre and Juanjo Beloqui) and a visual producer (Vicente Fontecha). Three renown professionals who confabulated in order to put their ideas on the scene, integrating video and light for rock'n'roll tours from a common point of view. Since then, they have designed, directed and carried out video and lights for the numerous tours and spectacles.

The System

The Electric Cube use the Edirol video mixers, according to the necessities of each spectacle or tour, whereby up to 4 mixes are sometimes used in one sole event, principally for carrying out different mixtures or multi screen.

Point of Selection

- Vicente Fontecha Video Manager

Our productions are based on real time, whereby our script is what happens on the stage. It is due to this that we like working on a time code structure. For this, the Edirol mixers allow us to carry out real time mixer control, with a minimum delay time and with quality margins that are beyond all doubt. The Edirol's V-440 HD are polyvalent and effective mix tools for live interpretation. They are quick and flexible.

We have sometimes employed up to four linked units (2 x V-440 and 2 x V-44SW) for making multi screens (El Canto del Loco, Héroes del Silencio, Estopa....) with very good results.
